Required Documents

Documents are part of the marriage process. Listed below is information about and links to documents that we are required to provide by law and need completion.

Happily Ever Before and After

We are required by law to provide every couple with the Happily Ever Before and After booklet provided by the Australian Government's Attorney-General's Department. The booklet is available here.

Notice of Intended Marriage (NOIM)

The NOIM must be completed at least 1 month prior to being married. This must be completed with the minister; however, you are able to complete the personal details prior to the meeting. For the NOIM to be fully completed you must bring with you to the meeting the following documents:

- Evidence of the date and place of birth (a full birth certificate,) for both for you, or a current overseas passport if you were born outside Australia
- Current photo ID
- Evidence of any previous divorce or evidence of the death of any previous spouse, as applicable. This would be an original divorce certificate or an original death certificate.

The NOIM can be accessed here.
